Fulfilment

MARTY Richards came back from the Big Scrap minus two fingers of his left hand. At first glance this would seem no great calamity; but to Marty it was the end of a dream .... For Marty had been a violinist of promise when he put down his bow and took up a Springfield .... Since that day the golden voice of his violin had been mute ....

From the day Betty Clausen had married Marty, she realized how deeply he loved that violin that never again would sing beneath his firm, square chin. ...

Marty had a bookkeeper's job in a downtown office. High stool and green eyeshade. Day afterday, week afterweek, month on month—columns of figures doing a devil's drill before tired eyes .... eyes that held that constant look of thwarted dreams .... God's pity! Making figures, adding columns, just for the want of a mere two fingers on a left hand ....

Betty played her songs on a typewriter. Marty didn't want her to work after their marriage, but she insisted. Shoulder to shoulder, building for the future. That was Betty.

And she kept her job until three months before the baby came.

When Junior was a year old Betty wanted to go back to work. She could earn enough to pay for the services of a maid and have a little left to tuck away.... But Marty wouldn't hear of that. So Betty stayed at home and carried on a bigger, finer job—the bringing up of Junior, who looked so much like Marty: promise of the same square jaw in maturity, and the same slender, facile fingers ...

Marty got a raise or two as time went on and they managed to get along. But there was nothing left for luxuries or savings. Their only amusement was an occasional movie ...

When Junior was six years old Betty came upon him one evening with Marty's violin out of its case. Bow in hand, he was trying to tuck the instrument beneath his chubby chin, like he had seen

After a moment Marty turned away with something like a choked sob in his throat . . . .

The pain of it had cut so deep that Betty couldn't bear to see the scene repeated—ever. She put the violin away on a high shelf in the bedroom closet and never mentioned the occurrence again. But she never forgot that haunting look of pain in Marty's eyes . . . .

And the days went on, and the weary grind of life . . . . And Junior was now ten years old . . . .

Marty wondered why Betty's eyes were so starry that night when he came home from work . . . . Why such repressed excitement in her bearing . . . . And where was Junior? . . . .

"Why, Marty, it's our anniversary—our twelfth! And we are going out tonight—you and I . . . . Junior? . . . . Oh, Junior is—with friends for the evening . . . . Come—supper's waiting."

"Twelve years . . . . Forgive me, Betty, for forgetting . . . . Are we going to a movie?"

Carnegie Hall. Home of music. Carnegie—where Marty might one day have stood if—

Sea of faces all around Marty and Betty . . . . Music lovers waiting . . . . Slow dimming of auditorium lights . . . . An expectant hush . . . . And out to the center of the stage, out to stand beside the grand piano where an accompanist sat, walked a ten year old boy with a violin beneath his arm and a bow in his hand. Slender figure sharply cut against heavy velvet backdrapes. He had Marty Richards' clean cut chin and Marty Richards' slender, facile fingers.

"Marty—hush . . . . It's a pupils' recital . . . ."

"Hush."

The violin—Marty's old violin—sang joyously . . . . Bach—Mendelssohn—Wagner . . . . Songs of the masters . . . . Rendered by a master in embryo . . . . By Marty Richards' son . . . .

Marty Richards' son . . . . One among a score, but head and shoulders above all the rest in ability . . . . Marty didn't even hear those others that followed . . . . His son . . . . His son! . . . .

Marty's eyes were aglow with a fierce love and pride . . . . But suddenly the glow faded and the old tired look came back.

"The lessons, Betty! . . . . Are we in debt for them?"

"Of course we're not," replied Betty happily. "Association of Army and Navy Stores' checks paid for them—every cent! . . . . We wanted to surprise you, Marty—Junior and I . . . . Aren't you happy?"

Happy?" . . . . Happy! . . . . Betty, I'm the happiest man in the world! . . . . The dream I never hoped to see fulfilled has come true—through my son—and you!"

Then Betty saw that that haunting, thwarted look she had seen in Marty's eyes for twelve long years was gone. Gone, she knew, forever.

The Firing Line

Winner, April Prize Story Contest

AW, Molly, ...doctors ....Telling us to get Peter out in the country. What about money?"

Jim Sutton, standing at the window of his tiny New York apartment, was conscious of gasoline fumes, the clang of trolley bells, shriek of truck sirens. A country boy himself, he suddenly wanted Peter his son to know the Spring fragrance of new grass, upturned earth, arbutus. The soft coo of doves. Bleat of baby lambs. Seven-year-old Peter who lay so white, so strangely listless in his little bed.

"Just able to swing the doctor's bill," he went on. After that . . . .

Molly, his wife, put her soft cheek against his rough one. Now she must tell him. The secret she and Dr. Benton had.

Like Jim, Dr. Benton was an ex-service man. A near neighbor and devoted pal of Peter's. Only Molly knew that no money could ever repay his hours of unselfish vigil at Peter's bedside. Peter's own naughtiness—sitting by the open window in his nighties—had swung him from an attack of bronchitis into a severe case of pneumonia.

With the crisis passed Dr. Benton wanted to get him out of the city. Quite frankly he had asked Molly about their financial condition. When Molly told him her secret they made plans. Now Molly tugged at Jim's coat-sleeve.

"Come, Jimsy. Want to show you something," she said. From a tiny locked drawer in her desk she dug out a small blue book. Mystified, Jim put out an enquiring hand. But Molly hid the book behind her.

"Jim, 'member how I nagged at you till you joined the Army and Navy Association?"

Jim grinned. "Yeah. You were a pest. Made me ashamed askin' for receipts. To save two cents. Glad you quit. Embarrassed me."

Molly smiled. "I know, Jim. Made you feel stingy. Just 'cause of that I had to be careful. Deceitful, maybe. Without you knowing it I steered you into Army and Navy stores—candy, flowers, books, clothes, dozens of things—salvaged receipts behind your back sometimes."

Jim scowled. "Molly!"

"Sorry, Jim. I was thinking of Peter.

Molly's blue eyes were stars. She flourished the book at Jim. A bankbook, full of small sums, which dated back to their early membership in the Association.

"Not cross, Jim?" she pleaded. "See, there's plenty for Peter . . . . Dr. Benton's aunt in Ellenville wants him. Has a son his age. And cows, chickens, fresh eggs . . . . At $8 a week he could stay a month and we could take him up and bring him back. Oh, Jim, aren't you happy?"

Jim's eyes were wet, shiny. His voice husky, contrite.

"Gee, Molly, you're the soldier in this family. Right out on the firing-line. While I . . . . Afraid to ask for a few receipts. But from now on . . . . Say, Hon, where's that little book showing the New York Army & Navy stores? Want to keep it in my pocket."

Thrift Ship

Winner, April Prize Story Contest

"I HOPE some day Daddy will have so much money that he'll give me all I want and I won't have to put it in the "Start-with-a-penny-end-with-a-barrel-bank.'" It was Johnny who spoke—eight years old and just beginning to sense the importance of money in the enjoyment of the pleasures of the world. So far, it meant either an all day sucker if he had a penny, or an Alaska sucker if he had five of them.

"How much do you think you earned cleaning the car for me just now?" I asked him.

"Oh, a hundred dollars, or five cents", he replied, with that large indifference childhood gives to matters considered so weighty by parents.

He got the five cents. "To spend for anything you want," I said, and saw the deep pleasure light up in his eyes.

A moment later his speedwagon shot by the window where I sat mending in the glowing light of a California sunset. He sat alert, like an engineer at his throttle, except that one leg was thrown over the side to serve as a propeller.

The sunsets are short in the semi-tropics. The rosy hues turned purple; grey twilight swiftly fell. I flashed on the kitchen light and started the simple preparations for supper. A step in the entry way—and I turned expecting to see a triumphant Johnny returned from his shopping expedition gloating over his trophy. Instead, entered grown up John—not so triumphantly returning from his daily attempt to supplement his retired pay.

"Why! didn't you pass him down the street?" I asked. "He earned five cents and started out like a financier." A doubt—a growing anxiety sprang up within me. After all, he was pretty small to set out on an investing tour all on his own, especially since we live several blocks from the stores.

Without waiting for hat or coat, I rushed for our ancient vintage Fordor, followed closely by a worried father. Away we sped down Marlborough scanning every block for the little red wagon. Suddenly John stepped on the brake so violently I almost catapulted into the street, and with a rush, I gathered a weary and disappointed little pilgrim into my arms. "Darling, what happened?" I cried, forgetting the scolding that should have been forthcoming.

"Mummy, I looked everywhere until I got lost. I wanted to find a candy store with a blue and gold Association boat on it. I wanted to get more for my money."

In spite of my scare, I was glad that he learned his lesson of thrift so early in life.

"Cowards Die a Thousand Deaths!"

Editorial

I ONCE saw a somewhat gruesome but very interesting one-act playet entitled, "The Valiant," featuring that eminent actor of the stage and screen, Mr. Bert Lytell. Mr. Lytell portrayed a condemned prisoner, about to be led to the chair. When asked by the prison chaplain if he was afraid to die, the prisoner replied, "Cowards die a thousand deaths—the Valiant die but once!" With the memory of that reply, these lines are written.

ALL AROUND us we see men and women, people in all walks of life. Some are called "successful." The world pays tribute to them. They are looked up to as leaders, as geniuses, as wizards almost. Envious eyes are cast in their direction, while unthinking thousands confidently exclaim—"If I only had their luck!"

LUCK?—LUCK! They mean courage. There is no such thing as luck. There are opportunities, which when properly taken advantage of, look like luck, but take the picture of any successful man apart and in it you will see the first requisite of success. Courage! Courage to fight against all obstacles. Courage to rise time and time again in the face of defeat. Courage to lash a human brain and body with the relentless whip of ambition, getting prepared for the battle of life. The successful man fights all his life for success! The failures quit most of the time, even though opportunity knocks on their doors with a trip-hammer.

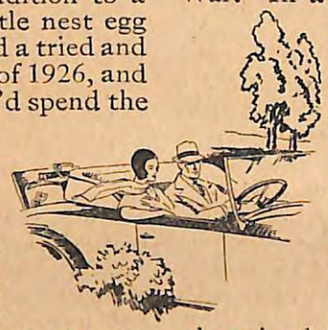

DO NOT couple money with Success. There are great successes who hardly have a dollar, and ghastly failures who are millionaires. It's never too late to try being courageous, to learn to be a valiant, to learn that "Cowards die a thousand deaths—the Valiant die but once!"

Vagabonding de Luxe

By Francisco Lawrence

WE had been staying at the Hotel Pittsburgher in Pittsburgh for a few days, and still had a whole month ahead of us. In addition to a month's pay and a nice little nest egg that we had saved up, we had a tried and true roadster of the vintage of 1926, and an argument as to where we'd spend the remainder of our vacation. I gently hinted that I'd like to tour down to Miami and look the place over. Peggy thought differently, however, for she remembered that I had promised her the year before, that I'd take her to Niagara Falls on our next vacation. You know how we fellows are—we compromised—we went to Niagara Falls!

The morning we left Pittsburgh we got up bright and early, had breakfast, checked out of the hotel and packed our bags and baggage into the rumble seat of the roadster. Off we were at last on a vagabond's journey, over hill and dale, enjoying the scenery and the cool fresh air. I'd been stuffed in an office for a whole year, and believe me I was going to get all the fresh air to be had on this trip! We lunched at Franklin and just outside of Meadville we went through about five inches of broken glass and jagged bottle necks and got only two flats!

Gosh, it was great when everything was running smoothly, but believe me after I'd finished fixing the two flats and changing tires, I was hot and tired. Finally we got going again, and about ten miles from Erie we came to a lovely farmhouse in a town called McKean. "Board and Room for the night" said the sign, so right then and there we thought we'd try rustic surroundings for a change, and went in to make arrangements for staying over night.

The inside of the farmhouse was quaint. Hanging over a mantel-piece I noticed a very old-fashioned rifle, and the proprietor noting my interest remarked that one of his ancestors had carried that gun in the Revolutionary War. In a minute or two dinner was served and after chatting with the proprietor and his wife for about an hour or so, we decided to retire for the evening because we wanted to start off early the next morning.

It seemed as if I had been asleep but five minutes, when I was awakened by a terrible noise outside our bedroom window. I thought all the animals in creation were gathered together right under the window, each doing his level best to make as much noise as possible. We both got up and looked out of the window, and there on top of a little shed just across the yard was the world's champion rooster—as far as noise and crowing were concerned.

Farmhouses?—Never again!

Driving through Erie we swung along the lake towards the northeast, heading for Buffalo. We had a late lunch in Buffalo and then started on our way to Niagara Falls. Across the bridge we went, for we had decided to stay at the Clifton Hotel on the Canadian side. There, from the veranda, we could see Niagara Falls in all its splendor. I had seen the Falls before, but it was the first time for my wife, and she was just enthralled. That evening after dinner a series of big searchlights illuminated the Falls with gorgeous colors of every description. It was indeed a wonderful sight to behold, and we both enjoyed it immensely.

The next day we went by easy strides to Hamilton and from there to Toronto, where we stayed at the King Edward Hotel. Toronto was a lovely city, fine streets, good stores, and we were right in the heart of everything. Leaving Toronto early the next day, for we had a good sized trip ahead of us, we proceeded along the north shore of Lake Ontario to Belleville and from there to Prescott, where we arrived quite late, but just in time to catch the last ferry across the river to Ogdensburg. We could have stayed overnight in Ogdensburg, but I knew of a little hotel in Canton, only eighteen miles away, so we continued on to Canton.

I recalled—Oh yes, a friend of mine back home was a graduate of St. Lawrence University, which is located there. In the morning when we were on our way again, we passed the University grounds, and continued through Malone to Rouses Point, and then turned southward, until we arrived at Plattsburg.

When I was in the Army I had never been stationed at Plattsburg, but some of the fellows whom I had served with had told me about it, and I certainly enjoyed seeing the place. The next morning we stopped at Ausable Chasm. It was wonderful to behold, the high sheer walls of rock rising almost from the bed of the river, and it was a sight long to be remembered! Continuing on our way we went through Elizabethtown and passed Schroon Lake, with its hundreds and hundreds of camp sites and cottages all filled with vacationists like ourselves. Then came Glen Falls, and from there we went to Albany.

That night we stayed at the DeWitt Clinton Hotel. We were dog-tired, and the trip was beginning to tell on us, so we decided to take it easy the next day. We visited the State Capitol which was right opposite the hotel, and then we casually strolled around for an hour or so before starting south. It seemed as if we were on the home stretch now, even though we were indeed quite a way from home, but I had been over this part of the country before and it was all so familiar. From Albany it didn't take us any time at all it seemed, just a few hours, when we pulled into Newburgh. We had intended staying in Newburgh, but I remembered a lovely little hotel just a few miles south, in Cornwall. Yes, that was the name of it, The Storm King Arms Hotel, right at the base of the big hills, just before you start over the Storm King Highway to West Point. As soon as you could say "Jack Robinson," we were seated at the dining table, for we were as hungry as bears. The next day we started up over the Storm King Highway, and enjoyed a most wonderful view up and down the Hudson River. My wife had never seen this part of the country before, and it was indeed a revelation to her. When we entered West Point we noticed the cadets marching off in different formations, some going to class and some others probably to drills. It was still the same beautiful, historic place. Wonderful trees, gorgeous grounds, massive granite buildings lending an air of dignity, with a gorgeous setting of green hills and impressive mountains in the distance. Well, we left West Point and stayed at the Hotel McAlpin at New York two or three days, taking in a couple of shows and doing a little window shopping. At last we arrived back home again tired but happy.

"Well," said my wife, "wasn't that a lovely trip? I feel a mite tired, but believe me, I wouldn't have missed it for anything." "Yes," I replied, "and when you come to figure it out, it didn't cost us too much either." "Oh, I know it must have," replied my wife, "I'll bet we spent every cent we had." "Not so you would notice it," I replied, laughing at her worrying. "Perhaps you didn't notice that almost all of the hotels we stayed at I got a receipted bill from the cashier. These receipted bills come from member hotels of the Association of Army and Navy Stores, and at least there's a lot of satisfaction in knowing that excepting the night the rooster ruined our sleep, we had dandy hotel accommodations and a chance to enjoy our membership privileges." "That's great!" exclaimed my wife, "but aren't you glad we went to Niagara Falls?"

What They Ask Us

By E. J. Walsh

60 or 90

Gentlemen: You have just returned one of my bills stating that it could not be accepted for Membership Savings because payment had not been made within sixty days. It was my understanding that we had three months to pay our bills but if I am wrong, please let me know as I do not want to lose future Membership Savings. Mrs. H. H. K., Evanston, Ill.

Dear Mrs. K.: Your inquiry is one which is frequently received from our members and we believe it is caused by the fact that we have two rules which, due to a certain similarity, are sometimes confused.

One rule, "D," states that in order for charge account bills to be acceptable for Membership Savings they must be paid within sixty days of the date of the first itemized bill rendered. This is an important requirement since it is a part of our contracts with merchant members.

The other rule, "F," states that bills must be presented, or mailed, to us within three months of the date on which the bills are paid. 60 days–payment—90 days–presentation.

Charge Accounts

Gentlemen: Very frequently I have difficulty in having my bills receipted and returned to me by the stores. When sending them my checks, I ask to have the bills receipted and returned to me but sometimes these requests are overlooked. It then becomes necessary for me to ask the merchant for a duplicate bill which, of course, causes considerable inconvenience.

Will you please let me know how this can be avoided? Mrs. S. S. W., Duluth, Minn.

Dear Mrs. W.: Since we do not require charge account bills to be receipted by the stores, it is not necessary for you to forward your bills to them for that purpose. Our regulation "T" explains how such bills should be submitted.

As you will see, you may write the date of payment on the itemized bills and send them to us at the same time you send your checks to the merchants with the upper part of the bills. This should eliminate any need for requesting duplicate bills since the originals will not leave your possession until sent to us for Membership Savings.

Cannot Join

Gentlemen: A friend of mine who is the widow of an ex-Army Officer would like to join the Association but she does not know whether this can be done. Since I am not sure on this point, I would like you to let me know and if she can join, I will send her application at once. B. G. Y., Fort Sill, Okla.

Dear Sir: We are sorry to say that although we can transfer the membership of a late member to his widow, we cannot accept the original membership of any one who has not been in the service.

From this you will see that your friend not eligible for membership and her application cannot be accepted.

Different Rates

Gentlemen: I have noticed that we receive a lower rate of membership savings on purchases from some stores than we do from others. I am curious to know why this is and why they are not all the same. If it is not asking too much, I would like you to tell me. Mrs. J. F. R., Detroit, Mich.

Dear Mrs. R.: The percentage of membership savings depends entirely on the percentage of commission which we receive on your bills from merchant members. This rate of commission, in turn is based on the operating profits of the respective businesses. Therefore, the rate is low in one type of business, such as groceries, and high in another, such as furniture.

Membership Savings Plus Interest Account

Gentlemen: After entering the savings due on the enclosed bills, please send me whatever amount there is to my credit in my Membership Savings Plus Interest Account, leaving a small amount on deposit sufficient to keep the account open. C. P. D., Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sir: We are enclosing our check for the full amount on deposit to your credit. This does not close out or discontinue your Membership Savings Plus Interest Account, since we do not close out an account unless we are specifically advised by the member to do so.

Cancelled Checks

Gentlemen: I have no bill for a recent purchase made from one of your stores but I have my cancelled check which is enclosed. Is it acceptable for membership savings? Mrs. H. E. O., Tacoma, Wash.

Dear Mrs. O.: A cancelled check does not furnish complete information concerning purchases and cannot be accepted for our commission. Such a check does not show the date of purchase, neither does it show the nature of the items purchased which is very important. Undoubtedly, if you ask for a proper bill you will receive it without delay, and you will then receive the Membership Savings to which you are entitled.

Identification

Gentlemen: When making purchases from member stores should I identify myself so that the sales clerk can write my name on the sales slip and must I explain why I wish to have a receipt? C. D. B., Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir: It is not necessary for you to identify yourself in any way when making purchases from member stores. There is no difference between a purchase made from one of our merchant members and any other store. After making the purchase be sure to obtain the cash sales slip or cash register ticket.

It is not necessary for the clerks to write your name on these vouchers but you should sign them before sending them to us for Membership Savings.

Addition Wins!!!

By T. A. Patterson

Take 1, multiply by 1, you will still have 1. Take 1, subtract 1, and you will have none. Start again—take 1, add 1, "Addition Wins!" You will have 2. These simple sums are just as simple as they were in those long ago happiest-of-all days when you were going—it makes no difference where you were going, those were really happy days. Little by little you grew. An additional inch in height, a few additional pounds in weight and the little boy or girl of today was full grown. Addition had won again!!

Regardless of the subject if we apply the simple rules as outlined above we must necessarily reach the same basic conclusions. The rules are the fundamentals upon which we, figuratively speaking, build. Indeed, how many times have you heard that very old nevertheless true adage, "Every little bit added to what you've got makes just a little bit more."

And so it is with the Association's business. Each new individual member is an addition. Each store or hotel added would mean very little if we had to consider it separately. It is when we think of all of them together that the business takes on its real aspect. If the Association had 1,000,000 individual members and no member stores what good would they be? If there ever was a business where it is necessary to combine two factors, it is the Association's. The problems confronting the Association are just as easily understood as the simple mathematical problems given in paragraph one above.

Here is a picture of our additional membership growth,—

1916	7,000 Members
1920	20,000 Members
1924	100,000 Members
1928	140,000 Members
1929	190,000 Members

The objective of our membership sale is to double our 1928 membership. Thousands and thousands of individual members have been added. It is indeed a very long road that has no end and one of these days this sale of memberships at a dollar each will be over. You, of course, are already a member and should worry!! Think this over though—if it had not been for the members added in days gone by, you would not be enjoying the benefits of membership. Addition won for you.

Separately we could do little but collectively we have accomplished something worthwhile. The Association's business is your business—a part of it being vested in each individual member. When the Membership Sale began, we had passed through what might be called experimental stages. The ground work had been done. The time was at hand when your Association could grow a great deal faster. All the membership selling prior to the sale had been done by personal solicitation. Frankly this method of membership selling was slow, costly and in an organization such as ours, it seemed to us as out of date. At the rate we were growing before the sale it would have taken us 360 years to cover the field. This was not entirely our fault and certainly it was not yours, yet facts are facts. Regardless of the type and number of salesmen employed, there are many prospective members we could not see, and it was not their fault. They were on the road, out of town, playing golf—take your pick as to where they were when the salesman called. And there is another prospective member who had at the time a very urgent use for that $10.00. He would grab the opportunity to enroll at the sale price.

Additional members; additional stores and hotels and then additional membership savings. Can the Association count on you for an additional member? One application is enclosed with this copy of "Today."

Rig Nargupple, narrates an old standby, has a smooth field back of his barn on the outskirts of town and so many sky-motorists have been using it for a landing field that the crops are almost ruined. 'Hey," yelled Rig angrily, "you can't do that."

Spuntley crawled out of the wreckage, wiped the dirt out of his eyes, and glared belligerently.

"Say bo," he snarled, "where the heck did you learn so much about gravity?"

Membership Savings on Rooms and Restaurant (E)

The above member hotels operate under the European Plan, and those hotels marked with an asterisk (*) operate under the American Plan as well.

IMPORTANT RULES

Membership Savings cannot be obtained if certain requirements entered into under contract between this Association and its Associated Member Stores are not conformed to. The return of any bills by us is regrettable. It means that you as a member, have lost the opportunity to save on your purchase to which you are entitled. It means also that the Association has lost commissions under the sale to which it was entitled and on which it depends entirely for its means of existence.

Both the loss to you and the loss to the Association can easily be avoided if you will carefully see that your bills, C. O. D. vouchers, or cash slips conform to the following regulations:

Membership Savings are paid to members from commissions to be paid the Association, although the Association pays its members their Membership Savings in advance of receiving the commissions from the Merchant and Hotel Members. Therefore, Membership Savings cannot be allowed on bills submitted subsequent to the time a Merchant or Hotel Member goes into bankruptcy or into the hands of a Receiver. Such circumstances are beyond our control and our contract is automatically cancelled and commissions cannot be collected. However, before a Merchant or Hotel Member is invited to join our Association, all possible precautions are taken to assure ourselves of its financial solvency.

(A) Purchases must be made after the date that your application for membership was accepted by the Association of Army and Navy Stores, Inc., 469 Fifth Ave., New York, N. Y.

(B) Purchase must have been made subsequent to the date the contract with the merchant member was signed.

(C) Purchase must have been made prior to the expiration date of the contract with the merchant member.

(D) Purchase must have been paid for within 60 days of date of first itemized bill rendered unless otherwise noted in our lists of stores (installment accounts or bills paid on the deferred payment plan are, of course, not affected by this rule).

(F) Bills, C. O. D. vouchers and cash slips must be presented or mailed in for Membership Savings within three months of date of payment.

The merchant member refers back to his record of your sale and checks over each bill, C. O. D. voucher and cash slip. Therefore, the three months presentation requirement is made in fairness to our merchant members.

(G) Bills, C. O. D. vouchers and cash slips must have the date of purchase clearly indicated.

(H) Endorse your name on each bill and cash slip. Rubber hand stamp signatures are not acceptable. If the bill or cash slip is not issued to the member or to his wife, but to a person entirely dependent upon him, it should be endorsed accordingly, qualifying the relationship. For Example; "Entirely Dependent Mother" followed by the member's signature.

The purchases of the wife of a member are eligible regardless of any personal income she may have.

Please advise us of any change in your dependents and be sure that your wife's name is listed on our records.

Only purchases made by a member, or his wife, or those entirely dependent upon him for support are eligible for Membership Savings.

Purchases by members for other individuals for which the member is reimbursed are not eligible for Membership Savings.

Please endorse correctly and return to us immediately all bills that we return to you because of the above requirements.

(J) The name and street address of the store must appear on each bill or cash slip.

(K) Membership Savings cannot be allowed on charges for alterations, rentals, repairs, labor, storage, Victor and Victrola products, unless noted in our lists of stores. In no case on interest, taxes, insurance, packing materials, express, parcel post and freight charges.

(L) Because of the exceptions enumerated in paragraphs D and K, an itemized bill is required (except where a cash register slip is the only form of receipt issued). An "Account Rendered" or a "Balance item brought forward" from the preceding month requires itemization.

Please have itemized and return to us immediately any bill that we return to you because of the above requirement.

(M) Membership Savings cannot be allowed on part payment of accounts. Bills must be paid in full. Installment accounts are eligible for Membership Savings (provided the final payment of such account is made within ninety days after final payment was due) unless otherwise specified under the merchant's listing.

(N) Membership Savings are payable on special payment arrangements provided the merchant agreed to such manner of payment. In submitting bills covering such accounts, the members should send letter of explanation.

(O) Membership Savings cannot be allowed on purchases of a commercial nature unless otherwise stated in our lists of stores. A commercial purchase covers all materials and supplies bought to be used for business purposes only.

(P) The amount of purchase must be clearly shown on the bill, C. O. D. voucher or cash slip.

(Q) Alterations or erasures on any part of a bill or a cash slip will render it void.

(S) A bill or cash slip on the regular bill head of the merchant member must be presented; a few merchant members require a special form as explained in the listing in our lists of stores.

(T) Bills must have date of payment indicated.

Where store does not require the return of your bill with your remittance the following endorsement on the bill by the member will suffice, unless otherwise noted in our lists of stores.

(Member's signature).....

(Member's No.).....

It is not essential to know your membership number, but this number on your bills facilitates our sending your check.

(V) Accounts must be made in the name of the member or in the name of a person registered on our records as being entirely dependent upon the member for support.

MEMBERSHIP SAVINGS

1. Patronize the stores that are members of the Association.

2. Obtain a cash sales slip with your cash purchase or save your first itemized bill in case of charge accounts.

3. Pay for purchase in the case of charge accounts within 60 days of the rendering of the first bill.

4. Send your cash sales slips and itemized bills in to the Association within 3 months of date of payment.

5. Sign your name to each cash sales slip or itemized bill.

6. Familiarize yourself with the rules in all lists of stores.

WHO ARE ELIGIBLE

The Association is composed of officers and men of the U. S. Army, Navy, Marine Corps, National Guard, Coast Guard, Naval Reserve and ex-Service men and 3500 high-grade stores and hotels selected by them. All those who have ever been or now are in the Military or Naval Service of the U. S., its states or territories, such as the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Students' Army Training Corps, National Guard, State Guard, Coast Guard, Coast and Geodetic Survey, Public Health Service, officers and men of the Reserve Corps of the Army, Naval Militia and Naval Reserve are eligible to membership upon payment of a registration fee of $1.00. This registration fee is for life membership and entitles the member to Membership Savings on purchases in member stores made by himself or persons entirely dependent upon him, such dependents to be registered with us on our records. Purchases must be made and bills presented to us in accordance with the rules of the Association.

There are no dues or assessments and the initial registration fee which is for life membership can be saved many times over in a very short time.

Patronize Member Stores and Hotels

Refer to "Today"---Every Day

"It's What You Save That Counts!"

Life is chock full of "reasons why," where practice makes perfect. A clever juggler or magician entertains you for a few moments with his dexterity. Everything he does looks easy, yet he practices every day for hours at a time just to keep in form. The same applies to musicians and artists, and in a similar way it applies to you.

You first joined this Association because someone sold you the idea of thrift in purchasing. You knew that you'd save money by purchasing from member stores and hotels whenever possible. Unfortunately, however, many passed up countless opportunities to obtain small but regular savings, and have just waited for infrequent chances to get big savings checks. In other words, all they have been doing is "belittlin'."

From now on, keep in practice! Don't waste a single opportunity to save even a penny. Don't neglect the small but regular savings by waiting for the bigger ones. Exercise your membership privileges regularly—save something every time you can—and always keep a copy of "TODAY" near at hand as a reminder. "It's what you save that counts!"

See list of Stores and Hotels in following pages

MEMBER STORES AND HOTELS

The names of merchants or hotels who have joined our Association since the last issue of this publication are shown at the top of each list and also in alphabetical order in their respective cities. Each member should be sure to look over the entire list in his own city as important changes in the various listings are frequently made.)

Charge Accounts

Most merchant and hotel members of the Association are glad to extend the privilege of a charge account to those who make themselves known as financially responsible. As an individual member you will find that a charge account at a member store or hotel has many advantages:

1. It will assist you in concentrating your purchases in a member store or hotel.
2. You don't have to carry large sums of cash while shopping.
3. You save time while shopping.
4. A charge account will give you a written record of your purchases—helpful in planning your family budget.
5. You will find it a great convenience in obtaining your Membership Savings.
6. You can take advantage of special offerings no matter what time of the month they occur.

If you desire a charge account at a certain member store or hotel we will be glad to forward your application if you will fill out the reverse side of this card and mail it to us. The merchant in question will then communicate with you after the customary investigation.

In connection with obtaining Membership Savings on charge accounts we respectfully call your attention to our Rule "T" which greatly simplifies the procedure.

Membership Savings Plus Interest Plan

Brief Outline of

MEMBERSHIP SAVINGS PLUS INTEREST PLAN

Fill out the reverse side of this card and mail it to the Association. This will give us authority, as your agent, to deposit all your Membership Savings until further notice in our special account in the Underwriters Trust Company, New York City, or such other bank as may be selected later, under our Membership Savings Plus Interest Plan.

Send in your bills for Membership Savings as usual, being sure the rules of the Association are complied with.

Instead of your Membership Savings check a Record Book and acknowledgment showing the deposit of your savings will be sent you, and the amount of your savings will be placed to your credit in the Association's Membership Savings Plus Interest account in the Underwriters Trust Company, New York City. When you direct us to deposit your first Membership Savings or make your first deposit under this plan, we will send you a Record Book and an acknowledgment. Future deposits and accrued interest will be entered in this book which will be returned to you. If you should omit at any time to send us the Record Book, we will send you an acknowledgment showing the amount we have deposited for you and make the proper entries in your Record Book the next time you send it to us. All entries in Record Book are made at this office.

4% INTEREST COMPOUNDED QUARTERLY

Interest at the rate of 4% per annum, compounded quarterly, will be paid by the Bank on balances of five dollars or over to your credit on the first day of the first month of the quarter, and on deposits made before the 5th of the first month of the quarter, and remaining on deposit until the end of the quarter.

Fill Out Card on Reverse Side

Have We Your Correct Address?

Judging by the number of changes of address we receive, we sometimes think that our members never settle down and stay very long in one place. Don't think we mind hearing about those changes, for as a matter of fact we wish every member would let us know when he moved. This would help the member, help the postman and, yes, we will admit, it would help us. If you have moved without telling us will you please send the card which is printed on the next page.

Sometimes it is months before we have new addresses on our records. In the meantime new stores have been added and members are unaware of these additions. In many cases members have moved to another city—the Association may be well represented in the new city but the members are unacquainted with this fact until months have elapsed—and in that period have not been able to save through their membership.

If the address to which this magazine was sent is not your correct and complete address, or if you are contemplating moving, please fill out the form on the reverse side of this page and send it to us.

Thank you.

Registration of Dependents

The purchases of dependents are eligible for Membership Savings provided they are registered on our records. In addition, the knowledge that a certain percentage of our members are married is sometimes instrumental in our being able to obtain contracts with merchants in certain classifications. If your dependents are not listed on our records at the present time, or if you have any doubt as to their being listed, fill out the form on the reverse side of this page and send it in to us.

Thank you again.
